COMUNICATO STAMPA

Themis, con la propria innovativa tecnologia brevettata "WRT", si è aggiudicata il premio "DEAL MAKER WINNER" nella competizione "Slingshot 2019" tenutasi dal 8 al 13 Novembre a Singapore durante l'evento internazionale "SFF x SWITCH" (Singapore Fintech Festival x Singapore Week of Innovative Technology").

La competizione "Slingshot 2019" è organizzata dall'agenzia governativa "Start-Up SG by Enterprise Singapore" per attirare nel paese asiatico le migliori innovazioni tecnologiche a livello globale offrendo loro l'opportunità di presentarsi di fronte ad una vastissima platea di investitori internazionali (fondi di investimento, Venture Capital, Family Office) e di potenziali utilizzatori (aziende locali, enti governativi e numerose compagnie multinazionali tra le quali i maggiori player nel settore digital ovvero Google, Microsoft ed Amazon).

"Slingshot 2019" ha visto la partecipazione di oltre 2.400 start-up provenienti da 120 nazioni, suddivise in sei segmenti: Agritech, Healthtech, Urban Sustainability Solutions, Fintech, Consumer e Manufacturing & Transportation.

Una giuria composta da professionisti di alto livello ed esperti di ogni specifico settore, ha rigorosamente selezionato tutte le 2.400 start-up scegliendo in una prima fase le 600 migliori tecnologie.

Un'ulteriore ed ancora più rigorosa selezione ha portato poi alla determinazione delle "Top 100 Global Start-ups" che si sono incontrate a Singapore per lo svolgimento della fase finale costituita da una serie di presentazioni, sia on-stage che person-to-person.

Al termine di cinque giorni di intenso lavoro, la giuria ha assegnato diversi premi per un valore superiore ai 2.000.000 di SGD.

La classifica generale finale ha visto la start-up EKO. Al quale "GRAND WINNER" grazie ad un'innovativa tecnologia per la prevenzione delle malattie cardiache, mentre THEMIS si è aggiudicata il premio "DEAL MAKER WINNER", ovvero il secondo premio in ordine di importanza consegnato dal Ministro dell'Industria e del Commercio SMS Poh-Koon Koh e dal Presidente di Enterprise Singapore Mr. Peter Ong.

La start-up con sede a Legnano, unica realtà italiana presente all'evento, ha riscosso un'enorme interesse ad apprezzamento per l'innovativa tecnologia brevettata "THEMIS WRT" che permette la drastica riduzione di rifiuti organici (fanghi, acque sporche, forsu) permettendo il recupero dell'acqua contenuta nel rifiuto originario senza alcuna emissione in atmosfera e con bassissimi costi operativi.

Una sincera soddisfazione è stata espressa anche da S.E. Dott. Raffaele Langella, Ambasciatore d'Italia a Singapore, che in visita all'evento ha incontrato il CEO Sig. Michele Romanò ed il Presidente del CDA Av. Giuseppe Ramundo rimarcando che il risultato ottenuto (secondi in una competizione con oltre 2.400 concorrenti) dimostra l'eccellenza delle capacità italiane nell'ambito dell'innovazione tecnologica.

Grazie al risultato ottenuto a questo evento, THEMIS ha gettato le basi per la realizzazione di un progetto di espansione nei mercati Asean.

MEDIA RELEASE

Medtech startup Eko.ai clinches top prize at SLINGSHOT 2019 powered by Startup SG

More than S$2 million worth of prizes awarded to startups at the 3^d edition of the international startup competition in Singapore

MR No.: 076/19

Singapore, Wednesday, 13 November 2019

1. Eko.ai was awarded the Startup SG grand prize of S$250,000 Startup SG grant at today's SLINGSHOT 2019 powered by Startup SG, organised by Enterprise Singapore. The competition, held in Singapore, provides a platform for the best startups to showcase themselves to global investors and corporates in the region. The medtech startup, founded in Singapore, clinched top spot for its machine learning based software for early detection and treatment of heart disease. The solution transforms a complicated clinical procedure that is costly and up to 30 minutes into a one-click, two minute single procedure.
2. Themis Industries S.r.l won the newly introduced Deal Maker prize, for garnering the highest level of interest in terms of investment and co-innovation from judges. The Deal Making component took place over a two-month virtual interaction segment, together with physical networking segments during the intensive three-day pre-competition preparatory Gear Up Workshop.
3. Eleven other Sector Winners (two each, including the grand winner, from the six sectors¹) received S$50,000 Startup SG grants each. These are ible Technology Inc. and Datature Analytics from the Consumer Products & Services, Media & Advertising, Retail & Food Services category; Nucane Life The Sugar Solution and Grower Agritech from FoodTech & AgriTech category; Ubudu SAS and

¹ The six sectors featured are: i) Consumer Products & Services, Media & Advertising, Retail & Food Services, ii) FinTech and InsurTech, iii) FoodTech and AgriTech, iv) HealthTech, BioTech and MedTech, v) Manufacturing, Logistics & Transportation, vi) Urban Solutions, Sustainability and Energy.

Wandelbots GmbH from Manufacturing, Logistics & Transportation category; EcoWorth Tech and WaveScan Technologies from Urban Solutions, Sustainability & Energy category; Bambu and CredoLab from FinTech & InsurTech category; and Breathonix from HealthTech, BioTech & MedTech category. Senior Minister of State for Trade and Industry Dr Koh Poon Koon gave out the top prizes today (refer to the Ministry of Trade and Industry's website for the Grand Finals Closing Address).

4. In its third year, SLINGSHOT 2019 attracted over 2,400 applications from more than 120 countries, including China, France, Ghana, India, Indonesia, Israel, Portugal, Thailand, the US and United Kingdom. The Top 100 Global Startups made it to the three-day semi-finals and grand finals, and also went through a Gear Up workshop to plug them into the Singapore startup ecosystem, in addition to pitch coaching, mentorship, and legal clinics.
5. Mr Peter Ong, Chairman, Enterprise Singapore said, "SLINGSHOT has grown over the years, successfully attracting more and more top quality startups from around the world. With the new focus on deal making, we gave participating startups more opportunities to profile themselves by increasing the number of investors² and corporates on the judging panels. This was made possible through the strong support and active participation of global investors and venture builders who are the key players in nurturing many of our innovative ideas and companies. "
6. The winners were selected by a panel of international judges comprising venture firms such as Asia Partners Fund Management, East Ventures, Jungle Ventures, Matrix Partners China and Sequoia Capital, as well as corporates such as Danone, L'Oreal, Rolls-Royce and YCH Group. Besides the Startup SG grants, selected startups also won S$25,000 cash prizes from Danone, L'Oréal, Mistletoe, Rolls-Royce, ST Engineering, and S$10,000 cash prizes from Sembcorp and The Yield Lab. Mediacorp provided a S$300,000 media prize package, and FundedHere gave out a S$200,000 investment to the SLINGSHOT Grand Winner as well. Other prizes included legal clinics by WongPartnership for the Top 12, while the Top 30 won three months' hot-desk memberships from Found8 and up to 18 months' worth of workspaces at JTC Launchpad developments. In addition, all Top 100 Global Startups were given S$13,600 (US$10,000) worth of Cloud Credits by Digital

² The number of investors on the judging panel more than doubled from 25 in 2018 to 70 this year. In addition, we increased the number of corporates joining us as sponsors, judges or tech scouts, by more than 5 times, from 17 in 2018 to 90 this year.

Ocean. This comprehensive prize package will give the startups a head start in establishing an office in Singapore, which in turn will contribute to the vibrancy of the startup ecosystem here. International startups will also receive Entrepass, a work visa for entrepreneurs.

7. Past year winners have seen good progress in the development of their solutions as well as in their fundraising efforts.

a. Alchemy Foodtech, a startup tackling the war against diabetes, has gone on to raise S$2.5 million after winning SLINGSHOT in 2018. Armed with technology to lower glucose release in food, it opened a foodtech laboratory, Cooklab@Alchemy, with the goal of transforming Singapore's food industry through innovation. It has already signed more than 20 pilot partnerships with food manufacturers and companies in the region to come up with healthier food options to combat diabetes and other diseases. Alan Phua, its co-founder and Chief Executive Officer, said, "Winning Slingshot helped boost our credibility immensely and made it easier for us to reach out to B2B customers and attract media coverage. We were very fortunate to also have potential customers reach out to us on their own after the competition. The post competition support, both business development and financial, from Enterprise Singapore was also unbelievable. All this boosted our business case and made Alchemy an even more attractive investment opportunity for Venture Capitals and strategics."

b. The 2017 winner, California-based Sophie's Kitchen, has also set up its plant-based seafood manufacturing operations here. Most recently, they nabbed S$1 million in funding at The Liveability Challenge 2019 presented by Temasek Foundation and organised by Eco-Business in Singapore. Today, a pilot run to grow protein out of microalgae is underway, with the grand ambition to make Singapore a protein-exporting powerhouse and an aspiration to provide alternative space food options for astronauts. Eugene Wang, its founder and Chief Executive Officer said, "SLINGSHOT opened up a new page in our company history. With the connections established and the money we got through this event, we were able to start working on a lot of R&D projects which we were unable to do previously. These research projects eventually led us to the grand prize at The Liveability Challenge 2019. Our business has since transformed into an advanced food tech company that is in the most exciting space. All these were made possible thanks to our participation in SLINGSHOT back in 2017.”
